COMMUNICATIONS.
For the Carroll Free Press.

Mr. Christy:—
In your paper of the 5th inst. Clodhopper enquired if it was the John Rankin who presided at a meeting held at the Court House in Carrollton, not long since, and whether this is the same James Thompson who at the same meeting offered resolutions &c., meaning if it was the same individual, whose names appear to a call in the Free Press, of the 29th of July last, requesting the people of Carroll county, to elect delegates, for a Convention to nominate a Congressman &c.

I notice in your paper of the 12th inst., an article over the signature of John Rankin, in which he acknowledges himself to be the same man who presided &c. At the last of his communication, Mr. Rankin thinks that Clodhopper has assumed an honest name to cloak his rascality. Nothing more astonishes me than to see the unhappy effect party strife, and high wrought political excitement, can have upon poor human nature. Mr. Rankin, whom every body knows (that is acquainted with him) to be, as a private citizen, an amiable, honest man, acting with such inconsistency; and so much at war with the general course of his whole life; first resolving not to go into the convention system with Columbia, and then forthwith, calling on the democracy of the county, to do the very thing he before told them not to do. "Not to do"—perhaps conscience has performed its office as it was wont to do; when he shows his powder in accusing me with rascality. What a democrat like Col. Rankin, get angry about a Clodhopper's asking him a civil question! surely not. Perhaps the Col would rather have the people talk of Clodhopper's rascality than his (the Col's) political consistency.

Col. James Thompson, in the Free Press of the 12th, denies voting in the courthouse at the last term, and says the resolution adopted was not his, &c. If James Thompson be the same person as I presume he is, why could he not have said that I offered a resolution which was not adopted—as to the voting I never asked him, I only wanted to know if he was the same man who offered resolutions &c. Why not answer me fairly? Do not dodge the question by an equivocal, disingenuous and uncandid—come out fairly and deny if you dare that you did offer resolutions at that meeting. Clodhopper has no unkind feelings towards Jas. Thompson, notwithstanding the Democracy of friend Thompson shuffles a little at being asked a fair question, and affects to think Clodhopper not a farmer, not (wise). The worst wish Clodhopper has for James Thompson, is that he had as much provender and all kinds of produce as Clodhopper raised this season. Wise, wise—Does Col. Thompson think it requires great wisdom to ask a single question of fact? Verily the Col. shows a good deal of Jesuitical perversion in answering it. Perhaps his ox has been sick, or some good friend had business with him about that time; if so, he can answer.

Both the Colonels disposed of, then comes Rupert, after emptying his budget upon Isaac Atkinson, and telling what an host of worthies, are amongst the faith full (in which by the by he may be in error) telling us of the errors of the American System, and its supporters from Henry Clay to Isaac Atkinson, and then gives the whigs a slight touch by alleging that they wanted the Democrats to support Van Brown, of old Rock, (now Lee township) for Congress, who never voted for a Jacksonman in his life. We have not the means of knowing Van Brown's votes, nor Esq. Atkinson's Tariffism—though we have been informed that Van Brown voted for an Auditor in 1823, of a county not far distant, who was a red hot Jacksonman, in opposition to a good man of his own party—and we further know that the election of said Jackson Auditor, was not very profitable to the people.

Poor Rupert fears Clodhopper will get buried in the furrows of Rankin and Thompson. Take care brother Rupert, if you are as ignorant of ploughing as you are of the politics of Ohio, you could not cut the sod, let alone turn a furrow.

CLODHOOPER.
August 19th, 1836.

Mr. Christy:—
A writer in your paper of the 5th inst., under the signature of "A Taxpayer," accuses, or rather complains against the Poor tax levied this present year, and also that of last year, &c. thinks that the Commissioners acted unlawfully in levying it—and requests an explanation of the views of law and sense of duty which induced this tax. I am of opinion that the act for establishing Poor houses, the act for the relief of the Poor and the act for the safe keeping of Idiots, Lunatics and Insane persons, should all be taken into consideration before a judgment is formed to find fault with the Commissioners, as to the Poor tax, since Carroll county has been organized; there have been four unfortunate human beings placed upon the county in such manner that the Commissioners were bound by law to provide for them—the Commissioners got relieved of three of them as soon as was possible, but one of them has not now, and from appearance will remain a county charge while he lives. They all four would have been proper subjects for a Poorhouse, but the county has none, and by law the jailor must take care of them—the funds of the county cannot be spared, and therefore, it has become the duty of the Commissioners to levy the Poor tax: Thus I have given my views and explanations to the Taxpayer, and have no doubt the Commissioners will be frank in giving theirs.

MICHIGAN has been the first State to legislate in reference to the act of Congress concerning the Deposites of Public Money. Her legislature, now in session, has passed an act, which the Governor has approved, authorising the acceptance and reception of her share of the Deposites to be made under that act.

Col. Lamar, the Secretary of War of Texas has addressed a very long letter to the President and Council of his country, urging upon them the necessity of putting Santa Anna to death. He concludes his letter with the following—

"That my feelings and opinions may not be misapprehended, I beg leave by way of recapitulation, to state that towards the common soldiers among our Mexican prisoners, I cherish no malice or resentment, looking upon the most of them in the light of unwilling instruments in the hands of tyranny; either can I perceive in the conduct of the officers any particular acts which might not be considered as legitimate in a soldier devoted to his profession, or in a patriot enlisted in the cause of his country. These, after an exchange of prisoners, I would retain in the custody of the government until the conclusion of the war; but viewing Gen Santa Anna altogether in a different attitude, I would adopt the course in reference to him, which I have already urged. His crimes being sanguinary, I would read his punishment from the code of Draco."

After all the legacies of Mr. Madison shall have been paid, a balance of one hundred thousand dollars will be remaining, which, by his will will be the property of his widow.
